

► Fostering is an ideal activity for people that love animals but cannot commit to having a lifelong pet in China.

► Most animal rescue groups in Shanghai do not have a shelter, so they depend on the help of rescuers and foster parents.

► It is a rewarding experience to give an abandoned and/or mistreated animal a second chance in life.

JAR's

foster parents needed

Every year many animals are born and abandoned in Shanghai. JAR does its best to rescue, rehabilitate and re-home abandoned animals. However, a major problem is the increasing number of animals being rescued and the lack of foster parents to help with this task. Do you know how important is the foster parent role in the running of an animal rescue organization?

Helping abandoned animals to have a second chance in life ...

Animal rescue organizations such as JAR always need more foster parents. For you it is a great way to have a "temporary" pet here in Shanghai if you cannot adopt, miss your own pet from home, you want to have a furry companion in general or if your own pet needs a friend to play and have company. By being a foster parent you get a companion and help save an animal at the same time! In the particular case of JAR, it needs to have foster parents for emergency cases (1-2 days) or long-term to foster dogs and cats. In a similar way, JAR also needs "special care" foster parents who are willing to take in sick animals or animals that require bottle feeding in a regular basis every day. It would be ideal to have additional foster parents available during the holidays as sometimes foster parents, rescuers or adopters go on holidays (summer holidays, the October and May holidays, Christmas and Chinese New Year) or back to their home countries too. JAR is always grateful to foster parents because it takes dedication, time and love. So, if you like the idea of being a foster parent, please send us an e-mail!
